

The change will remove a significant disadvantage that currently applies to all but the incumbent retailer. The change will therefore facilitate competition in the supply of electricity and contribute to minimising the long term cost of electricity in the SWIS.

Finally, the change would allow customers to influence their contribution to IRCR by influencing their peak usage to fall at other times than the SWIS peak usage. The current rules do not give these customers any incentive to take into account their time of use pattern as their IRCR calculation is linked to their individual maximum c
