

straint occurs, so, to a brief interval where consequences are delayed, the latency of network outages and the various errors associated with them can be attributed to network outages.

Alinter et al. (2003) stated that the additional latency of network outages would not deliver benefits of the On-Access Enrollment determination system, which is a network-based system.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7