Urban Design Consultant

Annelise Safstrom

Annelise has 40 years' experience across architecture, planning, urban design and placemaking. She has extensive skills in design review at strategic, project, and site levels in pursuit of context appropriate quality design outcomes.

As Director Urban Design, Metropolitan Redevelopment Authority for 10 years, Annelise provided urban design guidance with a design quality focus for major projects, including Elizabeth Quay and Scarborough Beach Foreshore. She established and led the design review process for projects and statutory planning. As Director Planning, Midland Redevelopment Authority for 6 years, Annelise led place creation, planning, and design for revitalisation of a brownfields State heritage listed area. Previously, Annelise worked in private consulting in areas as diverse as the arts, sustainability and place making. Her pioneering work on Greenhouse Neighbourhood Project and Amcord Urban shaped planning and design controls nationally.

She is a current Design Review Panel member for City of Stirling and Town of Victoria Park.
