

Architect, Mt Eyk
Lecturer, University of Western Australia

Emily runs an architectural practice called Mt Eyk and is a lecturer at the University of Western Australia. Emily's practice and teaching are two applications of the same approach – design driven by research and interdisciplinary collaborations which begin with the site and the local context.

Emily has worked previously at Troppo Architects and Gary Marinko Architects before starting her practice. Key areas of experience include housing, tourism, and remote abor